DELPHI, Ind. — Verizon Wireless is dropping customers in rural stretches of Greater Lafayette because they are using too much data on a partner's network, all despite being on the carrier's highly touted unlimited-data plans.

The dropped customers include some who live in Delphi, Logansport and surrounding areas where Verizon allows customers to roam on towers operated by S&R Communications.

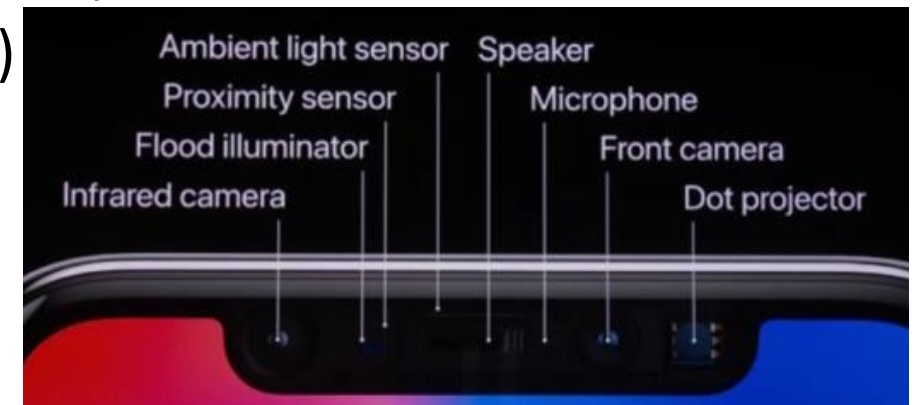

The partnership allows Verizon's customers to roam on S&R towers while still having access to LTE data. But Verizon customers who live
